

We put your property in the POUND seats and introduced your property to the EURO.

We have returned flushed with success from the European property exhibition season, at both the Homes Overseas exhibition at Earls Court and the Second Homes expo in Utrecht. Chas Everitt International Property Group was the only South African real estate company present and our stand was sought out by constant streams of visitors from opening to closing time every day.

It soon became very clear that most of these visitors were not just looking for tourism or lifestyle information about SA, but had already been to this country at least once and were serious about buying property here as soon as possible. Many were actually planning to relocate permanently.

The rand exchange rate is of course a major factor in SA's favour right now, as is the fact that the country is increasingly in the public eye as the build up to the 2010 Soccer World Cup gains momentum.

In addition, we are currently competing very favourably with traditional European holiday destinations such as Spain, Portugal, Italy and Greece in terms of property value for money.

Let us make your South African Real Estate dreams come true.
